The responsibility of the Asia Minor Disaster: An approach at clarification
Presented by Giannis Merkouris

The presentation will be in Greek. Zoom details above in red

The failed invasion of Asia Minor by Greece during 1921-22 and the total defeat of the attempt, was followed by the expulsion of nearly 1.2 ml of the Greek minority in Turkey at the time.

Since then, the discussion as to the responsibility of this national and humanitarian catastrophe has raged. Giannis Merkouris will present a comprehensive appraisal as to the allocation of the responsibilities to the political world and the military at the time

Giannis Merkouris has a Ph.D in history from the Ionian University and has undertaken postgraduate studies in St. Andrew's University in Scotland and at the Greek Institute of Byzantine and post-Byzantine Studies in Venice. He has participated and presented papers in numerous conferences and currently teaches in Intermediate Education.
