

The War Archive is delighted to invite you to a presentation entitled:
Historic walking tours in the streets of Athens: The practice of Public History

Wed. 26 April at 19.30 via Zoom

Presented by Menelaos Haralabidis

The presenter is a graduate in Economics from the Piraeus University and History from Athens University. He has published and edited several books focused on the events surrounding the liberation of Athens from the German troops of occupation and the following conflicts between the Left, the Right and British troops during Dec. 1944 which presaged the Civil War in Greece, 1946-1949. Since Dec. 2019 he organises regularly historic walking tours of Athens exploring, with small groups, the first hand experience of visiting places, buildings and spaces where a critical period of the history of modern Greece took place.