

The Archive of History and Art-the War Archive is delighted to present on Saturday 23 Sept. at 19.30 (Live and Hybrid presentations):

The urban re-housing of the 1922 refugees: The case of the suburb of Vyronas in Athens

The rehousing and relocation of refugees following the Greek-Turkish war of 1921-22 was an exceptionally complex undertaking involving not only economic, social and political problems, but also the reactions, both positive and negative, of the refugees themselves.

The presentation uses the case of the refugee suburb of Vyronas during the decade 1922-1932 to illustrate the processes and social dynamics of this extraordinary situation.

The presenter Spyros Delezos is a graduate teacher in the primary sector having also completed in 2021 his postgraduate studies in modern history.
